SELLING STARTS FRI. Jan. 19th 8:30 A.M.

Save Up to 50% On All Clothing Needs

We invite you, we urge you, to be here for the opening of the greatest merchandise event we believe you have ever experienced in the city of Hope, Ark. It will pay you to drive for 75 miles to be here and supply your needs during this store-wide, deep-cut price sale!

OUR REASON

We are overbought, overstocked, twice as much merchandise as we need. November and December business about half what we expected when we placed our orders for merchandise, consequently, we are unable to meet our wholesale bills as they come due. Natural result, our creditors are crowding us for their money. Rather than face this condition from day to day we are going to do what we believe you would do if you were in our position. This is a frank statement of our condition at the present time and why we are placing our entire stock on sale at a big reduction in prices. We must reduce our inventory at least one-half in order to meet our past due obligations. To do this in a short time, we realize we must make a drastic reduction in our present prices, this we are going to do. Starting Friday, December 19th at eight-thirty in the morning we are placing this entire SIXTY THOUSAND DOLLAR ($60,000) stock on sale at twenty and one to more than fifty per cent (20 and 1 to more than 60%) reduction in our present prices, on every article in the stock. This means all of our brand new merchandise is going into this sale on the same basis as all our other stock. (Nothing reserved, everything goes). During this time we will have extra people working hard to re-arrange and mark down in price every item in the store. Each article will carry the regular price tag as well as the sale tag, showing at a glance the saving you make on each item purchased in this CLOSING OUT of Stock Sale. We pledge our word to you that we are going to give you bargains throughout the store during this sale, you may come expecting them, you won't be disappointed.

(Signed): ED. I. REPHAN

No Decision Yet on Sending Troops Across

Washington, Jan. 17 — (AP) — A senate decision on the troops to Europe issue appeared likely today to be delayed until Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower reports to congress on his survey of north Atlantic defenses.

Chairman Connally (D-Tex) of the senate foreign relations committee told reporters any resolution affirming the policy of sending manpower aid to Western Europe will be held up until the committee can hear Eisenhower.

Eisenhower is expected to return late this month. Senator H. Alexander Smith (R-N.J.), a foreign relations member, said the general has promised to report to congress as soon as he has conferred with President Truman.

The senate's argument over the European troop issue was no more heated than criticism directed at the state department — by Connally among others — for American support of a United Nations cease-fire plan for Korea.

The democratic policy committee agreed informally yesterday to try to send to the foreign relations committee a resolution by Senator Wherry of Nebraska, the Republican floor leader. It declares project will be announced at a later date.

Coffee and cookies were served to the 16 members by the hostesses, Mrs. J. A. Davis and Mrs. Dalton Brown.

The following nominees were presented and elected by the group: President, Mrs. Carl Coffee; vice-president, Mrs. Carlton Samuel; Sec. and Tres., Mrs. Hollis Samuel and reporter, Mrs. J. M. Arnold.

Work for the year was briefly outlined. Mrs. O'Steen, assisted by Mrs. Lyle Arnold, served refreshments to 18 members and three visitors.

that no American ground forces should be assigned to the North Atlantic defense force until congress acts on the issue.

The senate had agreed earlier to vote next Tuesday on Wherry's resolution. That vote would be the first test of strength in the new congress on any issue which has figured prominently in the big debate over the course of U. S. foreign policy.

There seemed little doubt that administration forces could muster enough votes to turn the matter over to the committee.

Once it is there, Connally indicated strongly he will offer a substitute resolution to put the senate on record as believing it is desirable to give American military aid of all kinds to the North Atlantic pact partners.

Wherry offered to withdraw his resolution if he could be assured President Truman won't transfer troops until congress has passed on the issue.

Senator McFarland of Arizona, the Democratic leader, promised this would be no "unique" delay in considering the troop issue. He made no pledge for Mr. Truman, who has said he has full authority to act without approval of congress but will consult it anyway.

Senator Edger (R-Mass.), a committee member, said he thinks the group should send to the House resolution "which will give a definite directive and a definite expression of the will of congress."

Million Dollar Robbery Not Forgotten

Boston, Jan. 17.—(AP)—Five men working in the Brink's strong room will talk tonight of what they can never forget: How they were robbed just a year ago of $1,700,000.

For the five men still work at Brink's money express, still do the same tasks. And they'll be remembering the chosen marked robbery faces that suddenly stared through a grill and the black phloids. They'll remember how they have failed to find the tax, or sevand how the handia dragged out laundry bags heavy with money—$1,210,000 in small bills plus a half million in checks—and melted away in the night.

Twelve months' search by thousands of police the country over have failed to find the six, or seven, or eight bandits (the police don't even know how many or their facial appearance). And the robbers now seem even further from capture than they were at that nightmarish January 17, 1950.

They came in through six locked doors, presumably with passkeys, and loaded in Halloween masks, dressed in checked caps, pea jackets, dark trousers to resemble Brink's drivers, rubber-shod to muffle footsteps, wearing gloves to veil fingerprints. And they left no useful clue, only three picked up here and there over a period of weeks.

A second car found outside Brink's, 12 pieces of cord for tying the Brink's men, a Brink's pistol taken from the strongroom and buried down a riverbank in suburban Somerville, a car in pieces, light paint truck stolen months

"I WANT TO TELL THIS TO WOMEN IN YOUR 40's"

I find Lydia Pinkham's Vegetable Compound wonderful to relieve distress of 'change of life'

"Any woman between the ages of 35 and 50 should be interested in my experience. I was going through physical change of life and found myself terribly embarrassed from hot flashes, and I felt so nervous, easily upset because of this."

"What really helped me was when I overheard my husband explaining my shortcomings behind my back. He said, 'Don't mind Louise, she's going through change of life.' That made me feel better. I had heard how effective Lydia Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was for relieving such symptoms, and I decided then and there to try it. Thank heavens I did."

"I find Pinkham's Compound simply marvelous to relieve embarrassing symptoms due to this cause. In fact I now take Lydia Pinkham's Compound regularly to help build up resistance against hot flashes, tense emotions, flighty, nervous, tired feelings—due to this cause. I wish anyone who troubled this way would try this great medicine!"

P. S. Pinkham's Compound tastes sweet in a little fruit juice or plain water. A wonderfully effective medicine made especially for women.

DOROTHY DIX Sponging Relatives

Dear Miss Dix: How much do we owe to our relatives?

My husband is a man on a salary. It takes a lot of managing for our own family to live on what he makes, but ever since we have been married we have had relatives who came uninvited to place themselves down on us for support. Often they brought their whole families with them.

Yesterday my youngest brother quit his job, which he does every winter, and came here, bag and baggage, with the intention of sponging the winter away on us. I told him he would have to find some other place to park as I couldn't afford to support him. I got perfectly furious with me.

None of these relatives who sponge on us even offered us a crust of bread when my husband was sick, but as soon as he was able to work again they descended on us. Don't you think I am right to turn the welcome sign down on the door?

WORRIED WIFE

Answer: Indeed I do, and as sponging relatives have no fine capabilities that make them take a gentle hint, you will do well if you will padlock your door as well. Your first duty is to your own family, and you fail in that when you work your poor husband to death in order to support your family. He didn't marry your family when he married you, and there is no more reason why he should provide for them than any other stranger.

Don't Let Them Do It

Hospitality is one of the most beautiful of the virtues, but it becomes a vice when you let debtors make it the screen for a hold up, and that it what is only to often done. All of us have relatives or so-called friends who use our houses to save them selves from paying hotel bills and who with their families upon us for interminable visits whenever they lose a job or feel as if they would like to have a little rest and change, or a vacation that costs them nothing. First they come uninvited, that they put us to trouble and inconvenience and force us to spend money on them that we cannot afford. It is nothing to them. They are getting what they want and they should worry. If they are despicable parasites, we are contemptible spongers and fools for putting up with it.

We should have enough courage to say to them, "that we are not running free hotels, that we have all that we can do to support our own families, and that they will have to find shelter elsewhere. If this makes them angry, as it probably will, so much the better."

Dear Miss Dix: I am a born cook and I am married to a man whose only weakness is a fondness for well-prepared food, and as he does everything in the world to make me happy, I prepare his meals myself, although we could afford a cook. This pleases my husband and he boasts that he has an Antoine in his kitchen. But my mother and sisters, not one of whom could cook a decent meal, are casing a rumormongers over it and telling me that I am belittling myself doing my own cooking. I am getting sick and earlier and found scattered on a suburban dump, an acetylene torch that might have helped chop up the truck.

But there was never a fingerprint, nor even enough description to show whether the men were white, black or yellow. Nor even an intonation of voice that could ring a bell in any Brink man's memory.

No Split Season for Deer Rules Game Commission

Little Rock, Jan. 17.—(AP)—Deer will be hunted in a continuous open season in Arkansas next fall instead of the former split season. The Arkansas Game and Fish Commission yesterday made that change in regulations, the only revision of several suggested at a public hearing Monday.

The open season set for Nov. 5 through Nov. 16. Last year there was one week in November, then a closed interval and finally another open week in December. The bag limit of one buck per year wasn't changed.

The commission fixed April 24 for the open turkey hunting season.

Oilmen Expected to Ask for Hike in Production

Houston, Tex., Jan. 17.—(AP)—Texas oil operators today are expected to ask for a big increase in February crude production allowances, possible up to 160,000 or 180,000 barrels a day.

The Texas railroad commission meets here to hear testimony on February requirements.

tired of their criticisms and see no reason why I shouldn't do the thing that pleases myself and my husband. Did you?

Answer: I certainly do not, and I advise you to your gas range. There is no surer way of retaining a husband's affections than by giving him the things he likes to eat and filling him so full of good food that he won't want to roam away from his armchair in the evenings.

Sometimes it becomes necessary for a wife to tell her family where to get off when they begin interfering between her and her husband. It seems to me that the psychological hour has arrived in which you should gently but firmly inform your mother and sister that they must keep their fingers out of your pie. Tell them that when you want their advice you will ask for it and, that in the meantime just to omit all references to the way you run your establishment.

Dear Dorothy Dix: My boy friend and I were soon to announce our engagement, but now because he is drafted he thinks we should wait until he gets back. He believes I should be free during the time he is gone. If he really, honestly loved me, how could he say this?

Answer: He can say it because he is a fine, honorable gentleman and he is trying to do what will be best for you. Can't you understand an unselfish love? He wants you to go about and have a good time while he is gone and he trusts your loyalty. You will make a great mistake if you don't understand his broad-mindedness and meet it halfway. That sort of man doesn't understand selfishness.

Doubtful

Dear Miss Dix: I am a born cook and I am married to a man whose only weakness is a fondness for well-prepared food, and as he does everything in the world to make me happy, I prepare his meals myself, although we could afford a cook. This pleases my husband and he boasts that he has an Antoine in his kitchen. ## Tex Williams on Lion Oil Show Sunday

Don Esica will introduce that great Western song star, Tex Williams, as his special guest of honor on Lion Oil's "Sunday Down South" half-hour musical program on Sunday, January 21, on the Lion Oil network at 1:30 o'clock. "Sunday Down South" is carried locally by KXAR.

KXAR. Tex Williams is a welcome "Sunday Down South" guest having made a very successful guest star appearance last July. His easy style and pleasant manner make him an immediate hit with audiences everywhere. Tex is tall, handsome and possesses a mellow baritone voice, and is often referred to as "the Western Frank Sinatra." He also plays a snappy bass fiddle and a good rhythm guitar. Tex has done a lot of Western movie work, heads his own band occasionally, occasionally, is a noted composer, is a noted composer, a radio star and master of ceremonies.

In spite of his nickname, Tex actually comes from Fayette county, Illinois. The "Tex" was acquired while he was living and working in Denison, Texas. He signs "Sol" Williams, his real name on legal papers, but prefers to be called Tex both professionally and by his friends.

Highlight of the "Sunday Down South" program will be songs done by Tex in his unique singing-entertaining vocal style. The complete program will include singing stars Don Estes and Dottie Dillard—comedy man "Lige"—Beasley Smith with the Lion Chorus and Orchestra. Broadcast is heard over the Lion Oil network of 25 Southern stations and carried locally by KXAR at 5 p.m.

This Last Night By Ford Nuebel Copyright 1951, by NEA Service, Inc.

THE STORY: Paul Twine, seeking to correct what he believes to be an injustice, kidnaps his niece Judy from her unworthy mother and takes her to New York with him. May and Judy, who believe in him, stay with Paul, who is secretly in contact with a police friend named Martin Dabner, but is tipped off that police are waiting for him and that he is to get in touch with Captain Cross at the Duplex. Paul tells Paul how to reach his ship. Meanwhile, May decides to leave Judy in a movie while she goes to meet Paul.

XVI MAY JENKINS kissed Judy and turned to leave. Then she remembered something and whirled around again. She took Judy to a deserted corner of the lobby and, crouching beside the little girl, whispered: "You remember what happened in the subway this morning, don't you?"

Judy nodded. "Well, remember it all the time, honey. Remember what I told you about the terrible trouble it might have caused us. When you go in the movie they probably will have a newspaper. Now it will just mean that you will see something about yourself, Uncle Paul, or your mother or Judy. But if you don't, Judy's little world was round with wonder and her eyes alight with happy surprise.

"You may, if you do, you won't say anything to anyone, will you? You won't do anything but sit quietly in your seat and know what a big girl you are to keep such a big secret so well. Isn't that right?"

Judy Twine's cheeks flushed with pleasure. "I know, Aunt May. I promise."

May hurried from the theater. It was almost 5 o'clock and she had to get back to the car and then drive to 108th Street. She didn't want to keep Paul waiting. As she left the lobby and turned toward 81st Street she brushed by a man looking at the stills advertising the current picture. He was slight, fairly young, and extremely swarthy. He turned and his look was long, intent.

May didn't pay much attention. Her mind was full of Judy for the moment. She was deeply concerned with her decision to send her to the movies alone. At 81st Street she turned to her left.

IN doing so she looked back toward the theater. The stranger was walking toward her. He had his hands deep in his trouser pockets. His stroll was casual. May's fear of lending the police to Paul had been supplanted by her concern over Judy, but now it came back in seething torrent. She walked faster and only by exertion of great will power did she keep herself from looking back.

The car was parked between Amsterdam and Columbus avenues. She was almost at Amsterdam. His following car might be no more than a coincidence. Since she hadn't looked back, she didn't know if he was still behind her, but she felt it.

The only way she could be certain was if she did not go right to the car but turned to her left again at the corner. It would be too much of a coincidence if he too had elected to walk around the block. She made the turn. There were stores on Amsterdam.

One that she approached had a large display window with panels of glass facing her in addition to the one that faced the street. She saw her own reflection in the heavy glass. She saw him following.

There was no longer any doubt. She was being shadowed. The events of the day had done nothing to accustom and steel her to danger. The waves of panic that May had known in the subway and when she had looked down from her window in the afternoon took possession of her again.

The car was less than half a block away. She could get to it and once in the car elude him, but that was built on the predication that he hadn't been watching, which she didn't believe. Even if that were the case, he was too close.

As soon as he saw her approach the car he would be able to take some action. The only thing to do was to keep walking—to keep away from Paul.

Her chin quivered. She drew a lot of air into her lungs and held it as long as she could. She didn't want to cry. That wouldn't help. It only would make matters worse. A clock struck 5 and each of the deep, resonant chiming drove into her like hard fists.

Paul was waiting. Paul whom she had been yearning to see through the whole nightmarish day. Paul was in that little park now, searching for Judy and for her with anxious eyes. Surely he had seen the papers. What would he be thinking?

AT 85th Street May turned left again. Broadway was so much more crowded. Perhaps in a crowd she might be able to get away. The possibility of walking up to the park at 108th Street—just walking through and warning Paul by her expression that . . .

No, she must keep away from Paul! Eighty-fifth Street was empty. She was alone on it—she and that man. She could hear his heels clicking on the pavement behind her. Halfway up the block she heard his pace quicken. A desperate desire to run seized her, but she forced it down, made herself continue at her accustomed gait.

He was just behind her now. He was passing her! And now he had wheeled around, stood in the middle of the pavement, his legs spread, hands on hips, a funny kind of half-smile playing with his thin lips.

May was forced to stop and face him.

Burma Surgeon Sentenced to Six Years

Rangoon, Burma, Jan. 17 — (AP) — A Burma court today judged Dr. Gordon Seagrave, World War Two's "Burma Surgeon," guilty of high treason. The 53-year-old American was sentenced to serve six of his remaining years in prison for aiding 111 tribesmen rebelling against the Burmese government.

Seagrave's attorney said he would appeal the verdict and that he expected the appeal to be heard in about three weeks. Meanwhile the doctor was returned to jail.

The court found Seagrave guilty of two of three charges against him. It sentenced him to six years at hard labor on one count, and one year on the other, with the sentences to run concurrently.

The verdict came as a complete surprise. Most persons here expected his acquittal. Nurses from his hospital wept as the court for an hour and a half read its judgment before a packed courtroom.

Seagrave received the verdict stoically. Only his moving jaw muscles betrayed any feeling.

But after the judges left the courtroom, he told reporters: "I sincerely hope the American people will not judge the peoples of Burma by the actions of a few."

"I bear the Burmese people no malice for this," he added. Around the world the doctor's arrest at his hospital in Nankhau, Aug. 20 had shocked thousands of admirers of the famed surgeon, who was decorated by King George VI and the U. S. government for his heroism during Gen. Joseph Stilwell's jungle retreat from the Japanese in 1942.

Seagrave, who had spent more than 23 years giving medical aid to the Burmese people, was found guilty of aiding rebels, of capturing tribesmen when their capture was necessary for the Burmese frontiers.

The court ruled that he aided them by giving them, through a letter to a nurse, allegedly threatening her unless she kept silent about rebel activities in the hospital area.

Brail was discovered in 1500 by Pedro Alvarez Cabral, a Portuguese navigator.

Fair Enough

By Westbrook Pegler
Copyright, 1950
By King Features Syndicate.

New York, Jan. 18 — Arthur

Bills Lane, an ambassador to Poland who quit the diplomatic service to write a book called "I

Poland Betrayed," is now devoting himself to an expose of the Katyn massacre of Polish officers by the Soviet Union which was discovered in 1943. He is one of the originals of a society called the American Committee for the Investigation of the Katyn Massacre.

Mr. Lane has prepared a statement which begins: "One of the most heinous crimes during the war, yet one which has had the most far-reaching consequences, was the murder of over

4,000 Polish officers in the forest of Katyn, near Smolensk, in the Soviet Union. The crime was an act of such magnitude that it has become a symbol of the barbar-ity of the Russian regime. Yet the murder was discovered in April, 1943, when Nazi troops were in occupation of Smolensk, in Russia, 15 miles west of the Katyn forest, was shown by the condition of the bodies. They had been found with their hands tied behind their backs. All the men had been shot in an identical manner, a bullet in the back of their necks."

No trace ever was found of about 11,000 other Polish officers in Russian hands. None of these were prisoners of war, for Poland was not at war with Russia. The Russians captured them and they vanished.

American soldiers who were injured by the Soviet North Korean army after they had been captured in the early days of the Korean "poling action" were killed in the same way.

Mr. Lane also recalls that the American officer of war information

"adhered to the thesis that this crime—the slaughter of the 4,000

found in the mass graves at Katyn had been committed by the Nazis.

"The British and American governments," the statement says, "were strangely silent, being allied to the U. S. S. R. at that time."

For reasons why the American people were put in doubt one must rely also on reports from Russia

by American journalists. Accordingly, one refers to page 133 of

"The Curtain Rises," by Quentin

Reynolds, now a pundit of the radio and television and occasionally presented as a reputable, truthful and reliable authority on events of the Second World War in the "documentary" films.

Mr. Reynolds begins his discussion of the massacre by harking back to a broadcast of Dr. Goebbels, the German propaganda minister, in April, 1943. Goebbels charged that the bodies of 10,000

Polish officers, missing since the Russian occupation of Eastern Poland in 1939, had now been found

Senators Welcome Controls

Washington, Jan. 18 — (AP) — The government's decision to go ahead with price controls today and wage controls brought up a use of federal power in a whirl of last-minute preparations.

In the absence of any official word on exact timing, the best guess seemed to be that a general price freeze, probably rolling back prices to high levels somewhat, would come perhaps within a week or so, almost certainly not much longer.

This was just one development in a market speed-up in defense mobilization.

President Truman laid down late yesterday a national manpower policy calling for voluntary measures now, but he cautioned that sweeping controls will be sought if necessary. The idea is to see that defense industries and other essential undertakings get the men they need.

Then, too, the defense department sent congress a drastic new military manpower program. It also outlined an $87,000,000 program to buy the arms needed now and expand production facilities.

On the question of price-wage controls, Defense Mobilization Director Charles E. Wilson laid it out on the line in a Philadelphia speech last night.

"Voluntary methods will not work. . . . The power of the law must be invoked. . . . Whatever the causes for delay up to now, we must proceed with courage, speed and forthrightness to adopt the controls which will insure stability and fairness in our civilian economy."

The senate small business committee hoped to get more details from Wilson today about the coming controls. This committee called Wilson and William H. Harrison, boss of the defense production administration, to a public hearing.

In advance of the hearing, committee members commented on the Philadelphia speech.

Senator Spessard (D-Ark.) said Wilson was right about the need for speed. Sen. A. T. Sifton (R-Mass.) commended Wilson. Senator Tobey (R-N.H.) exclaimed: "100 per cent right." Senator O'Connor (D-Mich.) said: "Long overdue!"

Little Rock Jan. 18 — (AP) — The joint budget committee of the legislature last night followed through on legislative council economy cuts in departmental expenses.

Under chairmanship of Rep. L. H. Autry of Mississippi county, the group voted to start the flow of appropriation bills into the general assembly to pay costs of operating constitutional offices.

Land Commissioner Claude Rankin appeared to ask for certain increases over legislative council recommendations. His requests were approved.

Twelve other departments headed by clerical officials who failed to plead for more money at last night's three-hour session will generally have less money to spend than they have in the recent past.

The committee heard Revenue Commissioner Dean Morley ask for higher salaries for some of his employees than the council voted. Morley ran into a cross-fire of questioning.

"Do you believe that your effectiveness as commissioner could be improved if you were elected instead of appointed?" asked Rep. Jack Clark of Miller county.

"I don't think elections ever improved the efficiency of anybody," Morley told him. "I think it's a matter of being independent."

"There has been a request from the executive department for new taxes," Clark asked. Do you believe that if you could collect all taxes now levied by the state we wouldn't need any new taxes?"

Morley said he could not answer because of fluctuations in tax revenues from year to year.

The commissioner told the group his sales tax auditors produce about $175 per audit day in sales tax revenues that would otherwise be lost. He said that about 70 per cent of sales tax accounts are out of order.

Sales taxes account for about one-third of the state's revenue, Morley said. He said that his budget request of $145,200 a year represents a reduction of $311,000 from the figure for the last biennium.

Other departments appearing to seek more money than the council allowed them were the military department public service commission, parole officer, and state police department.

The committee postponed action on their requests.
